Topic: Freedom of Speech

Controlling Idea: The Misuse of Unrestricted Freedom of Speech

Topic Sentence: Not everyone should have the unrestricted right to freedom of speech because it can sometimes lead to harmful consequences.

Supporting Sentences:

1. Some people misuse freedom of speech to spread hate speech, discrimination, or incitement to violence, which can put others' safety and dignity at risk (news reports on extremist groups using social media to spread propaganda).
2. Social media platforms have become common tools for promoting racist or extremist ideologies, often resulting in division, hostility, and real-world violence (logical reasoning supported by current events).
3. Unrestricted freedom of speech can also create controversy and chaos in communities, as harmful messages hide behind the mask of free expression (real cases where hate speech escalated into social unrest).

Paragraph:

Not everyone should have the right to freedom of speech, this might come across as a very controversial statement but there are some situations where the luxury of unrestricted freedom of speech can be harmful to others. Some people may exploit it to spread hate speech, discrimination, or incitement to violence, all while hiding behind the mask of free expression. For example, when individuals use social media platforms to promote racist or extremist ideologies, it often leads to division, hostility, controversy and even real-world violence. That's why it is important to recognize that freedom of speech should come with boundaries to prevent it from becoming a tool for harm.
